Sign up for scouts...

In conjunction with an open house Thursday, Sept. 19, at the Seeley Lake Elementary school, the local Boy Scouts will be holding a recruitment to try and add numbers to their program. The scouting program here has a small number of boys, but the program is second to none. The scout leaders work hard and the boys are winning awards and standing high in competition with scouts from around the regiona and state. How many scouts get to go on a camping trip to the Chinese Wall in the Bob Marshall Wilderness. This is just one of the many activities these scouts do each year. If you have a boy who isn't in scouts, this is an opportunity to meet and talk with other scouts and the parent leaders.

The Blackhawks return to the home field this weekend in their first match-up with a conference team. Darby will take the field here against the Hawks on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. Good luck, guys. -Gary Noland

Hawks in home game Saturday

The Seeley-Swan Blackhawks football team and Ladyhawks volleyball team have put last year's dismal seasons behind.

With only one win for each in all of last year, the Blackhawks rolled to the second win in three outings this year last Friday at Plains and the Ladyhawks notched the third season win here against Arlee last Thursday.

The Blackhawks had 6-B Plains down 34-0 at halftime, added another 15 points in the second half while allowing Plains only one score, for a final 49-8 win.

Senior quarterback Abe Madinger scored three touchdowns, one on a 61-yard run, one on a 21-yard run, and the third on a 21-yard pass interception return. He also added six more points on a 80-yard pass play to Ryan Schnabl and two extra points on a run play.

Junior Riley Devins scored on three runs inside the 10-yard line, and two extra points on a run. Kyle Miller added two extra points

The Hawks, who have won two of three outings against 6-B squads, play the first conference game at home this Saturday, Sept. 21, at 1:30 p.m. with Darby.

Ladyhawks Notch Third Win

The girls' volleyball team is way ahead of last year's season when they won only one game. Arlee came to town last Thursday and the Ladyhawks notched their third win. besting Arlee in three of four matches.

The Ladyhawks allowed Arlee the first game 21-25, but then came back to win three. 25-22, 25-19, and 25-20.

Sarah Madinger had 10 digs and seven kills. Ashley Pena had 11 assists and two aces. Tatum Hoehn added seven kills, and Jana Greenwood had two blocks.

The girls lost a close struggle with the unbeaten Missoula Loyola team here Saturday. The girls won the first game 25-27, but then gave up the next three, 27-25, 25-22, and 25-19.

Forest Service commended for trail system

Dear editor

be commended for the improvement work done on the Seelev Creek Trail system. Several of the trails have been surfaced with compacted gravel to improve use for bicycles. It made the trails much smoother and more comfortable to ride. This trail system is one of the unrecognized assets to our community for year round use. It could even be of greater benefit if the Forest Service, or some local organization (hint hint) would provide interpretive signage for the historic and natural resources adjacent to the trails.

The area is a great place to go for a hike or ride bicycles. Thereis a good chance to see elk or deer. If you are lucky you could see a bear, or even a cougar. Of course there will be birds, squirrels, chipmonks and other critters of the forest. Youill see some areas recently (approx 10 yrs ago) logged. You may not recognize it, but the whole area was logged almost 100 years ago. If you venture far enough out from the trailhead youill be going thru what was a clearcut about years ago. The trail goes through the site of an old ACM logging camp (originally accessed from near where the Rice Ridge Road leaves The Seeley Lake Ranger District is to Hiway 83). Today there are no apparent signs of the camp.

"The power of mountain biking in enhancing tourism is important. An increasing number of communities in diverse locations recognize this and are developing effective campaigns to promote their trails and supporting facilities. Mountain biking brings millions of dollars a year into ski towns such as Vail and Winter Park CO, Mammoth CA, West Dover VT and others. Our sport has become an indispensable economic engine in less obvious locations such as the Cable / Hayward WI region of northern Wisconsin and also Medora ND. Appealing trails attract mountain bikers and boost adjacent lodging, food and retail businesses. We need more upto-date studies that summarize the economic benefits of trail tourism and we need to recognize that almost any town or region can become a mountain biking destination."

Remember what it was like to be a teenager?

Dear Editor:

We all remember what it was like to be a teenager, getting ready for the first day of school - hours spent in front of the mirror deciding on that perfect outfit. We so wanted to feel as though we "fit in" and that we were "cool."

Today, we at the Florence Crittendon Home need your help in making the return to high school special for our girls. Many of them have come to us homeless and without any clothing. Although our dream would be to let each and every girl purchase new clothing for school, the state cutbacks and a tight budget just don't make it possible.

In memory of your teen days, could you help a girl today? Ther are 16 teenage girls in our care, sizes 8 to 16. Could you purchase something? Or, could you help with a gift certificate or a check, so our caring staff can take the girls shopping. Our address is 901 North Harris, Helena MT 59601.

I can assure you, these girls are very precious, and so appreciative of help. One of the hardest things for them to accept is that osmeone really cares. As Montana's only licensed maternity home, we serve girls from your area. Your gift would make a tremendous difference in their lives as they return to school

Hunting can help control black bear problems

by Mike Thompson

Black bears have been frontpage news this summer. But, FWP's much publicized efforts to discourage bears and people from cohabiting homes and cottages up and down the Seeley-Swan in summertime is only one part of FWP's black bear management program.

The other part resumed last Sunday.

The fall hunting season for black bear upened on September 15 across western Montana in FWP administrative Regions 1 (Kalispell) and 2 (Missoula), and will close as usual on the Sunday after Thanksgiving (December 1).

That will mean the legal harvest of about 11 bears in the Clearwater drainage, in the area corresponding with the boundaries of elk and deer hunting district 285, if past trends hold true. This combined with the bears harvested each spring from April 15-May 15 yields an average annual harvest (from 1997-2001) of about 17 blacks in this area of about 489 square miles surrounding Seeley Lake

The question is, do the two parts of the bear management program relate to each other? In other words, is hunting being prescribed to manage the black bear population in a manner that is compatible with FWP's summertime program of damage control and prevention? Or are the two working at crosspurposes?

FWP biologists and wardens are taking are hard look at this particular issue across Region 2 as the deadline approaches for submitting tentative hunting regulations proposals for 2003. That's not a typo. In order for FWP to obtain public input, receive Commission review, and publish regulations booklets on schedule for the 2003 hunting seasons, FWP must start formulating recommendations now.

Current management direction for black bears was charted in 1994 with FWP's completion of a Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) entitled Management of Black Bears in Montana. According to the FEIS, "the ultimate benefit of the proposed action is long-term perpetuation of viable, healthy black bear populations that can provide aesthetic and recreational benefits to Montana citizens and visitors to our state, now and in the future."

The FEIS described 30 changes to the previous bear management program in Montana. Overall, these changes were intended to "improve the amount and quality of biological data collected: improve our ability to accurately monitor population status, composition and trend; improve regulation of annual hunting harvest in response to changes in population trend: provide more effective protection for the female segment of black bear populations; and enhance public understanding of black bear biology, habitat requirements and management practices."

Game Range Ramblings by Mike Thompson, Wildlife Biologis

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks

Generally, the FEIS envisioned that black bear populations would be maintained at roughly the same level of abundance as in 1994, but greater protection from hunting would be afforded to reproductive females.

FWP Region 2 implemented a hunting season restriction in 1994 that put the new statewide plan to work. The spring season for black bear was shortened by changing the closing date from May 31 to May 15 in the portion of Region 2 generally located north of Interstate 90. The idea was to focus the spring harvest on males that tend to emerge from hibernation early, and to close the season before most females with young typically emerge

There is evidence in Region 2 harvest data that this measure to protect reproductive females is working. Across portions of Region 2 where the spring season was shortened, an average of only 5 adult females was killed annually in 1994-1996, compared with an annual average of 13 in 1991-1993 (before the spring season was shortened).

However, as predicted in the FEIS, it seems unlikely that such a small reduction in the annual harvest of adult females across nearly 4,500 square miles of bear habitat would lead to any substantial increase in black bear numbers. Still, the regulation does provide an extra margin of safety for bear populations that were thought to be barely stable, if not declining, back vests since 1994 provide no black bear populations in the Seeley Lake area remain largely the same as they were in 1994.

FWP wants to maintain stable and productive black bear populations.

As FWP research is showing in the Swan drainage, individual black bears naturally range from rim to rim of the valley, and many if not most black bears in the population will cross paths with human habitation and potential food rewards in their lifetimes. It would be folly to attempt to reduce the black bear population to a level that might result in little or no risk of conflict with the human residents of the valley. Such a low level would probably leave the local black bear population with little reserve to rebound from occasional massive berry failures, like the one we witnessed in 1998. As FWP Warden,

Bill Koppen, emphasized in last week's Pathfinder, residents in the discernable evidence that a population increase has occurred. Still, FWP is looking harder for clues.

Because at least one part of the vision expressed in the 1994 FEIS has not been fully realized. Although FWP's protocols for collecting black bear harvest data have improved, biologists and managers across North America still struggle with relating harvest data to the living population. Does an increase in the proportion of young male bears in the harvest mean that there are more young males in the population, and that the population is becoming more productive? Or does it mean that there are fewer reproductively mature bears in the population, so hunters only encounter young bears? If you select the first interpretation, there may be cause to allow more liberal hunting regulations. But, if you're wrong, and the second interpretation is the correct one, more liberal hunting regulations could deliver a serious blow to a declining bear population. That's why FWP's study of the living black bear population in the Swan is so important. It will help us make better sense of the harvest data we collect. Perhaps more importantly, the emergence of new techniques, such as the "capture" of hair samples from free-roaming bears for DNA analysis, offers promise for effective ways to census living bear popuons in the future.

In the meantime, we are doing our best with the data and horse sense we have. It's too early to say whether we'll propose changes for the 2003 bear hunting regulations, but I'll let you know if we do.

black bear populations to grow unchecked. How could we ask people to adjust their behavior while we manage for more and more bears? That wouldn't make sense. And, data from bear har-

Quiltmakers sale benefits Fire Department

By Patricia Swan Smith

Last month the Quiltmakers of the Tamaracks presented the Seeley Lake Fire Volunteer Fire Company a check for $250 to purchase safety lights for vehicle crashes on the highway. Quilter Pam Keller and others agreed that many times when the firefighters are out flagging traffic it is hard to see them until a car is coming right up to the firefighter.

Administrative Chief Frank Maradeo accepted the check on behalf of the volunteers and introduced the volunteers and family who were able to attend the presentation.

Each year the Quiltmakers of the Tamaracks gives 20 percent of their raffle funds to an organization in Seeley. Diana Marquette from Lincoln won the beautiful raffle quilt, "Gem of the Wilderness.¹

This year's show displayed 134 incredible quilts. The following awards were won by participating quilters:

Viewers Choice Awards: 15-Ann Kimble "Pine Cone Ouilt": 2nd Karen Winther-"Red/Black/ White"; 3rd Donna Hougan-"Appliquéd Cats".

Theme/Challenge Awards: Viewer's Choice—Andrea LaMothe; Best Use of Fabric-Cosie Johnson; Most Original Theme-Maria van Lobens Sels.

Twenty-six area businesses awarded prizes to quilts that each business chose to fit their criteria.

A summer of Scounting Fun!

By Michael Biggins

The troop had a float trip down the Blackfoor River planned in June. The weather was cool, temperatures in the 50s and 60 and rainy on the weekend the trip was planned. The boys would probably have gone, but the adults canceled the trip.

Three events went off as planned in July. The troop carried flags in the local Fourth of July parade, two boys from the troop attended Takachsin, and lastly my wife and I took five boys backpacking into the Bob Marshall Wilderness.

Takachsin is the Boy Scouts Junior Leadership Training course. Scouts Ryan Richards and Michael Biggins attended this year's course. This was a week long camp held at Camp Arcola located in the Pintler Mountains. The boys learned various scoutcraft skills such as pioneering, cooking, and orienteering. Plus, leadership skills that will enable them to step in and run the troop as a boy run organization. These two boys will bear the mantle of leadership well.

While at Takachsin one boy, Michael Biggins, received a special honor. Near the end of the week each patrol elects a boy from its ranks to be their Senior Patrol Leader Michael was elected to this position from among his patrol members. He also was asked to be on the Takachsin staff for next year's program. This also is a special honor.

The backpack trip into the Bob Marshall Wilderness was a physically demanding, but yet a very fun trip. We started the trip on the beautiful eastern front of the Rocky Mountains, at the trailhead of Benchmark. The trip destination was the saddle at the base of Cliff Mountain where we could get a good view of the majestic Chinese Wall. In between was some tough hiking. great swimming, poor fishing at first and then it picked up pretty well, a 20 mile day, horseback riding, many blisters, a black bear sow and two cubs, and camaraderie with some very good kids.

Most of the boys who went weigh around 100 pounds. An ideal backpack should weigh no more that 20% to 25% of ones body weight. To keep the packs in the 20 to 25 pound range we took horses to carry the food, cooking gear, tables, stove and tents. The day we went to the Wall. Our camp was 20 miles away. We hit the trail early in the morning and used the horses. Half of us would walk for an hour and the other half would ride, then we would switch. We did this all day until 12 hours later we

which rises about 1000 feet from the valley floor. It runs many miles to the north and south of the saddle at Cliff Mountain. One gets the feeling of being small in the presence of this formation.

The west fork of the Sun River provided us with many campsites, swimming, and fishing. The river runs cold and clear, which was great for the 90 plus degree ferhenheight days we spent on the trail

Near the end of the trip we came across a black bear sow with two cubs. Whe she saw us she ouickly scampered away and sent her cubs high up a tree. One they were in the tree she quickly jumped up onto a branch about 10 to 12 feet off the ground and just waited for us all to move on.

Although we had a couple of reflections around the campfire during the week, the last night was special. The boys talked openly about the trip and what it had meant to them.

The Bob Marshall Wilderness is a beautiful and special place to be. It was very enjoyable for my wife and I to share the wilderness experience with the scouts who went on this trip.

In August Mike Richards and I took five boys to a Boy Scout summer camp for a week on Melita Island in Flathead Lake, Boy Scout summer camp is where a scoat can earn merit badges, earn rank advances, and just plain have a good time. Melita Island is a camp that specializes in aquatic merit badges such a sailing, swimming, canoeing, row boating etc. The boy's earned 14 merit badges at this camp, 10 of which were in aquatics. One boy completed two ranks advancements, two other boys nearly completed one rank advancement. Plus the boys had free time to swim, canoe, and go sailing. This was a fun and productive experience for the boys.

Other things the boys did at summer camp were to conduct a flag raising ceremony in front of the whole camp. The group went sailing on Flathead Lake one evening in a 27-foot sailboat. They also continued developing their cooking skills, as they had to cook every meal during the week. Most of the dinners were cooked in a Dutch oven. And of course sleeping under the stars. The sky was dark over the undeveloped Island the stars were bright each night.

The troop and four families went on the Hiawatha Bike Trail near Lookout Pass. It was a fun event. The boys have been working on the Cycling Merit Badge and the day we went they did a 30mile trip. Allot of sore butts that Lastly, as summer ends and we move into fall the Boy Scout Troop and Cub Scout Pack is having a recruitment night on Thursday September 19 from 7:00 to 8:30 PM. It will be held at the Seeley Lake Elementary School in conjunction with the schools open house activities. The Cub Scout program is for boys ages 6 thru 10 years of age. The Boy Scout program is for boys ages 11 thru 18. I encourage boys who want to have fun in a variety of ways to come and sign up that night.

Purrs IIn

We still have 12 kittens to pick from. What color would you like? We desperately need to find homes. All have first shots. Why do we have so many? Well, it's because people who should have and could have taken part in our spay and neuter program did not. When brought to us, we took the kittens rather than let them die or grow up to breed more kittens, PEOPLE, BE RESPONSIBLE, SPAY AND NEUTER. YOUR IRRESPONSIBILITY LEADS TO THOUSANDS OF ANI-MALS DYING EACH YEAR! Hopefully, everyone will realize how much it costs to keep these little animals and feed and care for them. Your donations are so needed in our efforts to Ingrid Goestrich, who adopted one of our kittens. Wish we could find homes for all of them as nice as Ingrid's.

Purrs Up

Thanks Nan Burris, for calling me about the little kitten with the bad leg. I retrieved it and brought it home and then to the vet. The leg was so injured it will most likely have to be amputated at the shoulder, as it has nerve damage which will never heal. The little kitten went to a loving home where it will be an inside cat. Due to the expense of the surgery and our donations down at Paws Up Safe Home, the surgery will be paid by yours truly! Little kittens have a way of getting hurt. Yes, we could put it to sleep, but it was born, It deserves a life of love

Deep Sadness

For those who saw the horrifying incident of a dog dragged to death last week behind a pickup. Please understand, as bad as this was and as bad as it was to the witnesses, please remember we are all humans and humans make mistakes. They forget. They get in a hurry. They assume someone else has done something. As horrifying as it was to you, please think of the owners of this beloved dog. The owner was inconsolable upon realizing what had happened. As bad as it was to those who saw the incident, think of what the owners are going through. The little dog is now at The Rainbow Bridge and is well and happy. The owners need our compassion. We humans make mistakes, and we pay for them. Deliberate cruelty deserves no compassion. This was a sad accident. Let's show these new people to our community that we are a compassionate community. They have to bury their beloved dog. Let's not bury our compassion.
